VOL. XXV....No. 7,498 NEW-YORK, TUESDAY, APRIL 18, 1865. PRICE FOUR CENTS

Special Dispatch to The N. Y. Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 17, 1865.

MOURNING.

There are not perhaps fifty buildings in the great city, occupied by persons of wholesome sensibility, that are not draped in mourning.

THE DOG ON THE TOMB.

Some of the shanties occupied by the greater refugee population are pretty generally draped in funereal. In many cases the rear structures have placed on the small scraps of crape and bombazine that their better accommodated neighbors, and even themselves little broader strips of black paper on which is crossed a doorway or window. The President's house shows somewhat more than the humble contribution.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.

The failure of a number of foreign attaches, of lower rebel sympathies, to adopt the universal symbols of mourning occasions much remark.

SECRETARY SEWARD AND SON.

Secretary Seward's symptoms are much improved since this Saturday. He can say in bed and had the papers read to him. Frederick Seward continues in convalescence this afternoon so far as he recognizes him with.

A MEETING.

There was a meeting of the citizens of Illinois this afternoon in response to the President's invitation.

ASSASSINATION OF THE PRESIDENT.

The Congressional meeting at the Capitol today was an impressive and solemn occasion. The usual formal committee were chosen.

after low and weak, all united in the strong grief. A few still stayed with him, but the most were constrained to withdraw, as it was thought best that he should be kept quiet. Mrs. Lincoln was early heard with sorrow of her own, and was tenderly cared for by her friends. Mrs. Stanton was hastily summoned with Mrs. Dodge, and was with her when the President breathed his last.

THE DEATH OF ANTICIPATED.

So far as known, the President was not conscious from the moment of receiving the fatal wound until the last moment. He, the Secret Service, is stated, was not conscious at any time.

Throughout the city, closely in accordance with the President's Proclamation, business was entirely suspended.

Yesterday the funeral was a very recent occurrence of the late President, surrounded by the words. Throughout the day the streets were filled with people, and business was entirely suspended.

The New Jersey line has business followed, and the Reverend Mr. Hall, Rector of the Church of the Epiphany, officiated at the funeral. Thence are dropped in the Church of the Epiphany, and the Rev. THE FUNERAL OBSEQUIES OF THE LATE PRESIDENT.

MEETING OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE OF CONGRESS.

COMMITTEE.

Yesterday morning the Joint Committee of the Common Council, appointed to take suitable action relative to the death of the late President, held a meeting in the chamber of the Board of Aldermen, John D. Lidgerwood, esq., in the chair, William Hinrichsen, esq., Secretary.

It was the unanimous desire that the remains of the President should be brought to the city, if it could be done consistently, to the end that the authorities of the city might publicly pay their respects to the memory of the deceased. The Committee on Arrangements, consisting of the Committee of Twenty, which has had such a magnificent share in the reception of the President-elect, and the Committee of Twenty-five, which had charge of the reception of the President, were appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

The Committee on Arrangements met in the Governor's room in the City Hall, in order to confer with the Governor of the State.

Board of Education.

The Board met at 5 o'clock last evening, the President, Jacob M. Patterson, esq., in the chair.

Mr. Smith, being about to offer resolutions in relation to the death of the late President of the United States, moved the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with our fellow citizens throughout the land in the sorrow which has fallen upon them in the untimely death of their beloved President, and in the sympathy and sorrow of the universal mourning for the assassination of the President of the United States.

Resolved, That the Board of Education of the City of New-York, in view of the solemn duties which devolve upon them in the education of the children of the city, and in the discharge of the high trust reposed in them by the people, will endeavor to impress upon the minds of the children under their charge the lessons of the life and character of the late President, and the duty of every citizen to imitate his example and to cherish his memory.

Resolved, That the Board of Education will attend the funeral obsequies of the late President, and that the Secretary be directed to notify the Superintendent of Public Instruction of the action of this Board.

Resolved, That the Secretary be directed to transmit a copy of these resolutions to the family of the late President.

THE FLAGS OF HALF-MAST.

By the proclamation of the Governor all mankind are to-day in mourning, except all places of amusement and the factions. The old Bowery Theater, in obedience to the proclamation, closed its doors.

Wednesday this pleasant week was a very busy one for the Bowery Theater, accustomed for the months. Every seat in the house was occupied, and the aisles were filled long between the parties, and business was very good.

The New Bowery has the historic reputation of the old, and the Governor's proclamation of mourning for the President's death has closed its doors. Shall I answer any disposed to ask, with Pharaoh from the outside shading the last of the plagues, "Wherefore is this night different from all other nights?" Shall I tell of a new and splendid theater, of public amusements there, covered their beings and glowing with the light of the gas, and of the fair forms that have been seen in windows at all evening in a place, although there is neither a national flag or gilt upon the front? Shall I tell of the
